

Gun Violence Prevention Challenge Summit & Hack-a-thon

April 13 – 15, 2018 | Boston, Massachusetts

Claire is a visiting scholar at the Boston University School of Public Health where she works on firearm injury prevention. She particularly focuses on norms and behavior and public opinion around gun cultures. With a Master in Public Policy from the Harvard Kennedy School, a law degree, and other degrees in political sciences and conflict analysis, she has a multicultural pluri-disciplinary approach to solving complex problems. In the past, Claire worked in sexual assault prevention, taught children with developmental disorders or disabilities, and worked on human rights and asylum cases in a law firm. Passionate about diversity and inclusion, she was also involved in several intercultural management and inclusion projects and chaired the Diversity and Inclusion symposium at Harvard. She is also the co-founder of the NotAlone Initiative, which aims to empower victims of sexual violence. Besides from her professional life, she enjoys staging plays, dancing Argentine tango, Isshinryu karate, reading, wine-tasting, star-gazing and cooking dishes and pastries from France, her native country.
